ENGLAND'S FOE,

Better Known as Dynamite, or Ireland's Friend.

its Invention, History, and How It is Made.

PHILADELPHIA, April 27 .- Dynamite is now considered an important factor in the current events of the day, and no doubt a history of its discovery, use, etc., will prove interesting to the general reader. True it is that England has every reason to dread its existence, especially since her warmest enemies are using it as an agent

Dynamite is one of the many products or combinations of nitro-glycerine, and is about thirteen times as powerful as gunpowder. The discovery of this dangerous and potent explosivewas made in 1846 by Ascagne Sobrero, then a pupil in the laboratory of Pelouze, the eminent French chemist, who devoted twenty years of his life to the investigation of the chemistry of oils and fats. Sobrero, having tried & series of experiments, eventually made explosive preparations from dextrine, mannite, cane sugar and glycerine. The announcement of the discovery was a sensation in the scientific world, but for some years, so dangerous and so treacherous was the new explosive, that few attempted in any way to utilize it. The force and power were there to do almost anything, but JAMES McGuire, and Frank Metz, both then the material was liable to explode prematurely and without any apparent provocation, and for a long time scientific men alone knew of its existence. Some time about 1863 or 1864 Henry and Alfred Nobel, practical mining engineers, began to experiment with nitro-glycerine as a blasting agent, and found it so effective and so economical that they at once took out patents in various countries, claiming that they were the inventors of the compound. Their claim to the invention is clearly unfounded, as Sobrero had demonstrated the existence of nitro-sugar, nitro-dextrin and nitro-glycerine nearly a score of years before, but there can be no question that the Nobels first applied the patent explosive to its legitimate uses.

THE CLAIM OF THE NOBELS.

The Nobels were not successful in their earlier efforts, owing to the large numbers of grave accidents caused by nitro-glycerine in Norway and in Germany, where hundreds of blasters lost their lives through ignorance or carelessness, so finally they gave up the use of the explosive in its original form. They now comme their trade to a mixture of rotten stone and glycerine, which forms the compound so widely known as dynamite.

Dynamite was patented in the United States May 26, 1868, the patent being granted to Alfred Nobel, of Hamburg, Germany, assignor to John Bandmann, of San Francisco. It consists of a combination of nitro-glycerine with a substance of great absorbent power, such, or instance, as fullers' earth or rotten stone. By this composition the explosiveness of the nitro-glycerine is controlled, as it were, and the compound is capable of withstanding all the ordinary dangers of transportation, while at the same time its explosive power is not less-

A reporter who called upon Powers & Weightman, the great manufacturing chemists, yesterday, was assured that that firm had never manufactured nitro-glycerine or any of its compounds. "We were applied to several years ago," said a member of the firm, " for a large quantity of nitric and sulphuric acid, which was to be used in New York for the manufacture of the explosive, but for some reason, probably a question of price or money, we did not close the bargain. We have no desire to extend our business into the manufacture of nitroglycerine or any of its compounds. I remember, now that you mention the subject, that when the demand for nitro-glycerine first began, we were on one occasion put to a deal of trouble.

A RAILROAD'S PRECAUTIONS.

"At that time we had a contract to supply a soap and perfumery manufacturer in the East with considerable glycerine, sometimes as much as 1,000 barrels in a lot. One day we sent a number of barrels of glycerine to the Pennsylvania depot, and were somewhat astonished at a call from one of the officials. He had evidently been reading the newspapers, which were filled at that time with nitroglycerine explosions, for he gave us notice that the road would not risk the carrying of our goods without a satisfactory guarantee that they were not explosive. It took no time to convince him that glycerine is not explosive, and that it is only the basis for the great explosive."

"Do you know of any manufacturerers of dynamite in this city ?"

"There are none nearer than Camden; that is, unless some individuals are making small quantities for their own use, and that I do not consider probable. The process of manufacture is very simple. You take a certain proportion of nitric and sulphuric acid and mix them with certain other proportions of glycerine, which is the essence of fat, to make the nitro-glycerine. I won't agree that in case you try this experiment you won't be blown into smithereens, because some of the processes are very dangerous, but I tell drew a revolver and fired twice, fatally inyou that making nitro-glycerine is as easy | juring her.

as rolling off a log, if you know how to do it. To make dynamite you only need to mix nitro-glycerine with some absorbent material-fuller's earth is the best-to have dynamite. It's easy enough, is it not?"

Lew Hauk's Trial.

DELAWARE, O., April 27 .- The trial of Lew Hauk, the gambler, for the murder of Paul Lohman, in 1878, commenced here yesterday. The court-room was crowded with grangers, students and citizens. Hauk is being almost canonized by the Delawareans, who regard him as a hero. He sat in the court-room near his father, a venerable, white-haired man of seventy. who is an antiquated fac simile of the wayward son. Hauk's brother was also with him, and after to-day his wife will sit by his side during the trial. Major Blackburn and J. D. Ermston, of Cincinnati, are engaged in Hauk's defense, and the crowd looked at the Cincinnati lawyers with as much wonder as at Hauk. The rest of this week will be taken up in getting a jury, and the trial proper will get under headway by Monday. Hauk is confident of acquittal.

A BREATH OF FREE AIR.

has. F. Kring, Who Has Been Sentenced to Hang Several Times, at Last Released on Bail.

St. Louis, April 27 .- After eight years and three months confinement and suspense, has. F. Kring was to-day given his librty on a bond of $3,000. His next apsearance in court will be to answer to a harge of murder in the second degree, to ustain which there is no evidence, and which, in the proper time, will probably be solle pressed by the Circuit Attorney, as a rial, in view of the decision of the Sureme Court of the United States and the prior decisions of the State Sureme Court, would only amount to a farce. Any one who knew Kring eight years ago, when he was committed to jail, and saw iim to-day as he walked with uncertain teps to the screen of the jail, would adily agree to a verdict that he has sufered much. The matter was disposed of his morning, and Kring will be allowed o leave as soon as the bond is approved.

Being interviewed, Kring said: "Every rgan in my body is out of order, and I am 'educed to a mere skeleton. I don't think weigh over 130 pounds. Further than his, I have not formed any plans. I will isk a physician's opinion on the transfusion of animal blood into my system. I have great confidence in it myself, and am live to the necessity of gaining strength without loss of time. I may not live very ong; if I do, I don't know what I shall do. don't know what effect the air will have on me. I have only been out three imes since I first came into jail in January. On the first of these ocasions the sensation was very peculiar. It was very much the sensation of a person swinging high. I experienced a light, fluttering feeling about the heart and a certain gidliness. This was in 1881, and was the irst time had I seen earth or sky, grass or trees, horses or domestic animals in six years. It has been monotonous enough. The only changes I have experienced have seen from one cell to another,"

"Were your various sentences reliefs to he monotony ?"

"Yes, very unpleasant ones. You know was first tried in 1875, convicted, and sentenced in the fore part of January, 1876. was again sentenced in 1881, and was within twelve bours of the time set for my execution when Judge Sherman granted me a stay of execution. The time that most affected me, however, was between the time the State Supreme Court affirmed my, last sentence and the time that Justice Miller granted a writ of error, which took the case to the United States Court. I came near despairing then, as the writ of error was a new thing, and I had but little hope. You see that door over there through which the men were taken to the scaffold? Well, that creaks when swung on its hinges, and it is opened by the guards several times a day. I was here for a long time and never paid any attention to it. Even now I wouldn't notice it if it was opened a hundred times a day. During the time I speak of, every crack of that door shot through me like an electric current. I felt more apprehension then than at any other time since my confinement. It is all over now, and I hope to recover my health within a few months."

The details of the crime for which Kring's name has so often appeared are too familiar to the public to need publication. The murder occurred on the night of January 4, 1875, at Fourteenth and Mullanphystreets, when he was rebuked by Mrs. Dora Broemser, the wife of his business partner, with whom he was insanely in love. On her refusal to accompany him he Congressman Phil. Thompson Kills His Man.

A Southern Railway Murder-The Victim Charged With Betraying His Slayer's Wife.

HARRODSBURG, Ky., April 27 .- A fatal nd terrible tragedy occurred about half past seven o'clock this morning on a train of the Cincinnati Southern, at the Harrodsburg Junction.

Phil. B. Thompson, jr., a member of Congress from Harrodsburg, and Walter Davis, a grocer of the same place, who had just sold out in order to go to Chicago, boarded the train due here at 10:25, at Harrodsburg. Both men are very wealthy.

Thompson took a place in the baggage car on the road to Harrodsburg Junction prior to taking passage on the Southern. Davis was in another part of the train neither knowing of the other's presence.

When the change of cars was made at the Junction Thompson espied Davis in the car. He immediately approached him, and a scuffle ensued.

Davis started for the door, and going out was about to step off the car when Thompson pulled a large revolver, and, firing through the window, struck Davis in the back of the head over the ear. The ball penetrated the skull and passed out of the forehead over the right temple.

Davis fell dead alongside of the smoking car. Thompson pocketed his revolver and at once made tracks for home. There were no police around, and no one made any attempt to detain Thompson. The train, which was No. 4, did not wait, but orders were given to take the body of Davis back Harrodsburg.

Pat. Nester, news agent of the Southern, who was on the train, was an eye-witness of the terrible murder. He stated that when the scuffle ensued, Thompson pulled his revolver and shouted: "Now, you take my wife to Cincinnati again," and then fired the fatal shot.

It is alleged that Thompson's cause for the bloody deed was that Davis, about two weeks ago, had taken Mrs. Thompson to this city and caused her ruin.

Thompson and a number of his friends at least, claimed that the seduction of Mrs. Thompson by Davis was a fact.

Mr. Thompson had been in this city at the Burnet House last Tuesday, and had gone back evidently for the purpose of hunting up Davis. It is also stated that Thompson has in his time killed three of Davis' cousins. Thompson represents the Eighth Kentucky District in Congress, which is composed of the following counties: Adair, Anderson, Boyle, Cassy, Garrard, Lincoln, Madison, Pulaski, Russell, Taylor and Wayne. He was bern fa Harrodsburg, Ky., October 15, 1845, is by profession a lawyer; was elected to the Forty-sixth Congress as a Democrat, receiving 12.538 votes against 10,766 votes for George Denny, Republican.

Costly Telegraphing.

Washington, April 27 .- "Telegrams for Mexico, Central and South America," is the egend borne by a big placard in the Western Union Telegraph office here, and a reporter asked the receiving clerk if they and many messages for those countries. · Not many outside of the officials here," ae answered. "They file a good many, of course, but the commercial messages are not numerous. New York is the place where most of those are filed. The cable business there is wonderful. The cost, you know, is a good deal less than it was a year or two ago, and the cable business has increased rapidly there."

"Do the foreign representatives have such important matters to communicate often as to require the use of the cable ?" "Oh, that is where you have me," he laughed. "They write all their messages in cipher of the most untranslatable kind. I have no idea what they mean, nor have the operators who send and receive them." "The cost of them must be quite great,

"Yes; runs up into the hundreds of dollars for a single message. I have received em here that cost between $500 and $1,000 for a single message."

More Tewkesbury.

Boston, April 27 .- The Tewkesbury eximination was resumed. Christian Mailler testified to tanning human skins recoived from various doctors and students. and a pair of uppers for slippers made from a woman's skin were shown. Frank G. Haverlin testified to cruelty practiced by the nurses. On one occasion they dressed an idiotic boy in fantastic garb, and frightened one poor German so that he died soon after.

He remembered that a patient who had received extreme unction from a priest was taken by the back of the neck and forced along screaming into the bath-tub. He lied thirty-six hours after. Witness said these cruelties had taken place since last, September, and he then described the fare given the inmates, which was passably good and plenty of it; however, he would not go back to Tewkesbury if he could

LONDON, April 27 .- Lord Carlingford Lord President of the Council and Minister of Agriculture, yesterday received a deputation, headed by the Duke of Richmond, which came to confer on the subject of the foot and mouth disease among cattle. Lord Carlingford said they practically asked for the general prohibition of the landing of live stock in England. The department was only prepared to use its powers where a need existed. The assertion made in America that the disease was practically non-existent there might be incorrect, but, generally speaking, there was very little of the disease in that country, especially in the West.

Fagan Found Guilty.

DUBLIN, April 27 .- The trial of Michael Fagan, for the murder of Burke was continued this morning, the case for the defense having closed. Judge O'brien charged the jury.

His remarks were to the effect that the testimony given by the informers against the prisoner had been fully confirmed by that of other witnesses.

THE act to provide for the establishand been signed by the Governor. Its purpose is to have all troubles with regard to wills arranged while the testator is alive, so that he can appear in his own behalf as well as in behalf of his own heirs. All persons in the will under this enactment appear before the Probate Judge at a specified time to show cause, if any exist, why the will should not be probated. The purpose of the law is certainly good, and its enactment in other States would do away to a large extent with the almost endless litigation with respect to wills that now prevails.

THE effort making in Massachusetts to induce the Legislature of that State to move for a vindication of the late Oakes Ames of Credit Mobilier bribery fame, does not meet with much encouragement from the New York Sun. The last issue of that paper contained the following on the subject: Mr. Ames's intention when he placed the Credit Mobilier shares where they would "do the most good" is clearly established by his own statement: "You cannot get these men," he wrote, "to look into a thing, to give attention to it, to understand it, unless they have an interest to do so, and therefore I must must contrive some means or other by which I can make the interest of these leading men in Congress identical with my own, that they shall be as watchful in relation to all this mater as I myself would be." The plan which he contrived was to give Congressmen stock, the market value of which was to depend on their official action.

This is bribery, and there is as little doubt that Oakes Ames was a briber as tended to.

FEEDING. The young silk-worms will eat almost continually, and should be fed only snall quantities of fresh leaves five or six times during the day of twenty-four hours, for the first week, commencing to feed early in the morning and last meal given just before going to bed. During the second and third weeks, three times a day is enough to feed them. During the fourth week is the time to feed them. During the fourth week is the time to feed them. doubt that Oakes Ames was a briber as that he never regarded himself as such. With his business habits and blunt moral perceptions, the transaction probably appeared to him as a sharp stroke of business, something not to be talked about too loudly in public, but containing in itself no elements of shame. It was humiliation and not remorse, that broke Oakes Ames's heart.

Now Bring on Your Iron-Clads. FORTRESS MONROE, April 27 .- The operations of the Coast and Harbor Defense Company, of New York, which have been conducted for some time past by Lieutenant J. W. Graydon, U. S. N., to lay a cable from Fortress Monroe to the Ripraps, pass it around a sheave and work it with a steam engine, by which torpedoes can be placed at any desired point in the channel, have at last been crowned with success. Yesterday twelve dummie torpedoes were sent across a distance of a mile and a quarter, and returned to the base of operations. All the torpedoes were completely concealed from view, being below the surface of the water, and their exact position only being known by the operator, who, at will, was enabled to place them at any position in the channel desired to obstruct an enemy, or to withdraw them to allow the passage of friendly vessels. Lieutenant Graydon is highly pleased with the results attained, and predicts that it will cause a revolution in harbor defense.

O. N. G. General Encampment.

COLUMBUS, O., April 27 .- Adjutant General Smith has written an invitation to all the commanding officers of the Ohio National Guard and to the members of the Governor's staff, asking them to be present in Columbus on May 4, for the purpose of discussing the question of a general encampment of the O. N. G. at one point, Several points will clamor for the encampment, should it be decided upon. The state grounds, Columbus; fairgrounds, Marysville; Greenwood Lake, Delaware; Lake Side. Sandusky county, and points near Cincinnati have been already named.

A Colored Preacher Hanged.

WALHALLA, S. C., April 27 .- Frazier Copeland, a colored Methodist local preacher, was hanged here to-day for the murder of William J. Hunnicut, a farmer of this (Oconee) county. Although Copeland for-merly, as a minister in his church, had quite a reputation for piety, the feeling after the murder was so strong that the officers had to take him to the jail of Greenville county, adjoining, to save him from lynching, and there he remained to the day of execution. The execution took place at 11:45 a. m., and in accordance with law was private.

For the DAILY BULLETIN. SWEET VISIONS OF A "KITCHEN GUARD."

In silence of midnight a "Kitchen Guard"

His mattress seemed harder than ever before,

But side sore and sighing his cares flew away. And visions of sweetcakes came down by the score.

He dreamed of the night of the last "masquerade ball,"

Of the flirtings and conquests of that most blissful hour. And the "Beauties" and "Belles" down before him did fall. To crown him their "leige lord" as they only have power.

He dreamed they called him a "darling," a "lamb," And showered down "taffy" like raindrops in spring. But horrors! each told him they never would stand For him to have to his bow but one single string.

He dreamed of a "sweet" mansion, lordly and fine,

With servants and vassals at every command. And to crown all a dear little wife most divine. To pour him his coffee at every demand.

Oh! "Kitchen Guard" woe to thy dreams of such joy, Bear in mind that "the being" with the most velvety paws, Will laugh in her sleeves and immensely en-

KEELY STILL WORKING

And He Now Claims That His Mctor Will Astonish the World.

PHILADELPHIA, April 27 .- Keely, of mofor fame, is by no means dead, and it is smong the possibilities of the near future that he will yet astonish the scientific world with his motor. He is now engaged erecting a new vibratory vertical engine. which he expects to complete in a short time. A correspondent saw the machine yesterday, and gained considerable information regarding its peculiar construction, but was unable to learn the secret of the motor—something that the wonderful man keeps securely locked in his breast. In fact he is so jealous of his pet that he makes portions of the secret work himself. The new engine is exceedingly bulky, as will be noted by the dimensions, which are as follows:

The bed plate upon which it rests is 12 feet by 6, of cast iron and weighs 4,400 pounds. The apparatus resembles an orange pierced by a pencil, and then suspended upon two uprights. These uprights are denominated standards, and weigh 3,200 pounds each. The standard at the right hand supports a steel shaft nine inches in thickness. This is stationary, and suspended upon the end of it is an iron disk weighing 600 pounds. To this disk is attached a cylinder containing the secret method for giving the power. Connected with the cylinder are ten wrought-iron tubes. three feet long, weighing 150 pounds each. At the left-hand side of the tubes is a steel disk half an inch in thickness, containing 230 steel pins driven in about an eighth of an inch from the periphery. These are placed equi-distant with mathematical precision, and taper in length from five to two and one-half inches. This portion of the machine has much the appearance of a long key board, such as one sees in a piano. The standard or pillar at the left hand supports a nine inch shaft, which is not stationary. To this shaft is attached by means of set screws an iron shell or sphere made in four sections. The shell covers all the machinery described above except the shaft. The diameter of the sphere is sixty-six inches, inside measurement. The weight of the shell is about 10,000 pounds, and the central section is cast so as to accommodate a forty-inch faced ball. It is to revolve upon the movable shaft at the left end, and turn around the machinery that is contained inside of it. In fact, the shell is to be the driving wheel, and is to be propelled by the force communicated to it from the interior. This force, or the elements producing it, reaches the inside of the shell by passing through a minute aperture in the stationary shaft into the disk, the secret cylinder and the tubes. From there the power is dispensed and the sphere made to revolve. The small engine, of which the one now in course of erection is an exact copy, has been made to operate, and Keely believes that he has found the true method now. It is claimed that the present is a simplified and modified form of the vibratory engine, and, as it combines two things, has been named vibratory vertical engine. It will weigh about seventeen tons when completed. It differs very materially from other engines and motors. The principal characteristics are that no heat is envolved, and there is no exhaust. If it is a success, good-by to steam-power.

Putting On a New Nose.

Indianapolis, April 27 .- The other day a vicious horse bit off B. Hexter's nose, and a new one is being furnished him at the surgical institute in this wise: The measurement of the nose was outlined on the fleshy portion of the right palm, and the skin partially raised. This pattern was then fitted to the frame work of the nose like a ball cover, and the hand tied fast to the nose. It will remain in this position for ten days, until the skin of the hand is thoroughly transplanted upon the nose. Then the new nose will be cut from the hand, and nature will do the rest. Mr. Hexter will lose a piece of his hand, but is assured by the doctors that he will gain a complete nose, warranted to "blow" per-

A Good Day for Turtles.

GLOUCESTER, MASS., April 27 .- Captain Augustus G. Hall and the crew of the schooner Annie L. Hall vouch for the following: "On March 30, while on the grand bank in latitude 40 degrees 10 seconds, longitude 33 degrees, they discovered an immense live trunk turtle, which was at first thought to be a vessel, bottom up. The schooner passed within twenty-five feet of the monster, and those on board had ample opportunity to estimate its dimensions by a comparison with the length of the schooner. The turtle was at least forty feet long, thirty wide, and thirty feet from the apex of the back to the bottom of the under shell. The flippers were twenty feet long. It was not deemed advisable to attempt its capture."

Tewkesbury Defended.

Boston, April 27-- Dr. A. G. Tucker, of Australia, who has examined nearly all the insane asylums of the country, visited the insane ward at Tewkesbury two weeks ago. He saw every patient, and found everything remarkably clean. He found only seven persons to care for 260 patients, but was told that the appropriation would allow no more. The inmates were neat and clean. He thought it improper that female patients should have male attendants, which was one of the greatest evils at Tewkesbury. Witness would have the insane at Tewkesbury amused or employed constantly. The mode of restraint there was the same as is employed at other inat tutions.

Pramatic Festival Notes.

CINCINNATI, April 27 .- John Simpkinson, Vice President of the Dramatic Festival Association, will retire from the association after the Festival is over. He says he is not influenced to take this course by the criticism of the ministers. He has helped to put the Dramatic Festival upon a firm basis, and now wants to give way to younger men.

The great drop curtain for the Dramatic Festival arrived this morning, and will be hung to-morrow. It is the largest ever painted in America, covering sixty by fifty feet of canvas. There is one curtain at Paris that is a fraction larger. The curtain was painted by Henry E. Hoyt, of the Grand opera-house, New York. The cost is between $1,800 and $2,000. The picture in the center of the curtain is 40 by 25 feet, and illustrates the departure of Regulus from Rome. It is from an old painting by Ben-

Did Not Want to be Any Trouble.

MILWAUKEE, April 27 .- Patrick Finerty, of Green Bay, was yesterday sentenced to fifteen days in jail for selling liquor to Indians. The Court adjourned and the commitment papers were made out when the Sheriff discovered that the prisoner was missing. A telegram from Green Bay to-day states that Finerty came straight home and applied to the jail to spend the allotted fifteen days. The documents, therefore, were forwarded by mail.

Child Burned to Death.

Louisville, April 27 .- George Hoeyer, a gardener who lives several miles out on the Bardstown pike, put one of his children to burning stubble and straw, and directed the smaller ones to keep away. One of the younger children, however, ventured too near the flames, its clothes caught, and, though Mr. Hoeyer burnt his own hands dreadfully in trying to get the burning clothing off the little one, the sufferer was fatally injured.

Printer's Strike at St. Paul.

St. Paul, Minn., April 27 .- This evening thirty-two compositors in the office of the Globe struck because the proprietor refused to be dictated to by the men, who insisted that the printers setting "ads" and markets should pay a bonus to the other compositors. The Globe is a none-union office. but pays forty cents per thousand ems, the highest price in the state.

Chloroformed by Eurglars.

WHEELING, W. VA., April 27 .- At halfpast 8 to-night the house of F. G. Cline, of the Belmont Mill, on Market street, was entered by burglars. Mr. Cline was on duty at the mill. Mrs. Cline and her two children were chloroformed, and over $200 in money, a valuable watch, and other jewelry were taken. Mrs. Cline is in a dangerous condition from the effects of the chloroform, and may die.

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

cures Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Rheumatic Gout, General Debility, Catarrh, and all disorders caused by a thin and impoverished, or corrupted, condition of the blood; expelling the blood-poisons from the system, enriching and renewing the blood, and restoring its vitalizing power.

During a long period of unparalleled usefulness, AYER'S SARSAPARILLA has proven its perfect adaptation to the cure of all diseases originating in poor blood and a weakened vitality. It is a highly concentrated extract of Sarsaparilla and other blood-purifying roots, combined with Iodide of Potassium and Iron, and is the safest, most reliable, and most economical blood-purifier and blood-food that can be used.

Inflammatory Rheumatism Cured. "AYER'S SARSAPARILLA has cured me of the Inflammatory Rheumatism, with which I have suffered for many years. W. H. Moore." Durham, Ia., March 2, 1882.

" Eight years ago I had an attack of Rheumais m so severe that I could not move from the bed, or dress, without help. I tried several remedies without much if any relief, until I took AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, by the use of two bottles of which I was completely cured. I have not been troubled with the Rheumatism since. Have sold large quantities of your SARSAPARILLA and it large quantities of your SARSAPARILLA, and it natige quantities of your Sarsafarina, and it still retains its wonderful popularity. The many notable cures it has effected in this vicinity convince me that it is the best blood medicine ever offered to the public.

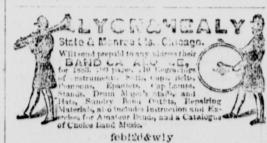

E. F. HARRIS."
River St., Buckland, Mass., May 13, 1882.

"Last March I was so weak from general debility that I could not walk without help. Following the advice of a friend, I commenced taking AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, and before I had used three bottles I felt as well as I ever did in my life. I have been at work now for two months, and think your SARSAPARILLA the greatest blood medicine in the world. 520 West 42d St., New York, July 19, 1882.

AYER'S SARSAPARILLA cures Scrofula and all Scrofulous Complaints, Erysipelas, Eczema, Ringworm, Blotches, Sores, Boils, Tumors, and Eruptions of the Skin. It clears the blood of all impurities, aids digestion, stimulates the action of the bowels, and thus restores vitality and strengthens the whole system.
